Savvy job seekers and home buyers focusing on relocating, can learn a great deal about our community from our website. The simple truth is that relocating is a stressful time and the more information you have at hand, the better decision you will make.

Why consider relocating to Prineville? Many people relocate for the weather. Prineville is on the dry side of Oregon and has a moderate climate. Are you contemplating a lifestyle change? Prineville is a community that's expanding its frontiers, but has a job-your-boots up pace. Prineville is a town that's held onto its western heritage without holding itself back. Prineville is an established, small and friendly community with reasonable taxes, and a diversity of housing. The medical services, educational system and community service systems are solid and supported by the residents. Our high quality of life makes Prineville a desirable location. There are a variety of recreational opportunities within a few miles of the city center. Prineville is enjoying a wave of growth accelerated by a strong housing market.

Prineville is a small town with a strong identity. Community leaders have the city's and county's interests at heart and they are actively involved in civic matters. There are a number of service clubs and non-profit organizations whose missions are to increase the welfare and well being of the community and its residents.
